To the Atlanta Community:

The City of Atlanta is committed to providing resources and creating avenues that will prove invaluable to the lives of our young people. Ensuring the educational, social and physical development of our Atlanta youth remains a high priority. Our children are the future of this great city.

The Camp Best Friends summer program offers participants the essential life skills needed to become healthy individual and productive citizens. For eight weeks, boys and girls of all ages are afforded the opportunity to engage in a variety of recreational activities, express their individuality and develop new friendships.

Always searching for greater inclusion, Camp Best Friends takes pride in opening its doors to all children, regardless of economic background. No child is ever denied to this program due to the inability of their funds to pay.

Programs like Camp Best Friends would not be as successful without the support of our valuable public-private partnerships. They continue to help us make a difference in the lives of Atlanta's youngest residents. As Mayor of Atlanta, I extend my deepest gratitude and appreciation to you for your support and investment in Atlanta's future.

Sincerely,

Shirley Franklin
